

Sydney's road network is being upgraded

Easy ways to reduce impacts on your commute

June 2023

As we are emerging from the pandemic and with important city shaping Transport projects underway, now is the time to embed sustainable commuting behaviours.

To achieve a more sustainable commute, we can adopt small changes to achieve a healthier transport network and shorter commute in the long term. Important city shaping projects like the Warringah Freeway Upgrade, Rozelle Interchange and Sydney Metro City and Southwest will make travel faster, easier and safer to get around Sydney. These improvements to our transport network may impact your commute to the office.

Which one can you do?

We're all doing our part to help people get around faster in Sydney. You can help by making a simple change to the way you travel to the office.

Tick which one you can do.

Leave the car at home

For a smoother commute, leave the car at home and take the bustling bus, terrific train or the fabulous ferry.

Travel earlier or later

If you must drive to the office, then leave home earlier to beat the traffic. Transport for NSW recommends commuting before 8am or after 9am.

Travel on Monday or Friday

Travel to the office on days that are quieter on the roads. If your workplace offers flexible working arrangements, choose Mondays or Fridays to go to the office.

Trip Planner

See how easy it is to make this change. Use Trip Planner to find our best route to the office.

Opal Travel

Download the Opal app and turn on travel alerts to keep informed of any changes to your commute.